Clockwise from top left: This open-plan setting features a galley design featuring Larna, a new furniture range from Masterclass Kitchens that combines beautiful textures and a versatile neutral colour palette. It features a flat slab door that can be chosen with handles or the brand's H Line handleless version for a minimal and streamlined look. Available in six colours, shown here in Light Grey and Graphite, combined with Madoc in Tuscan Walnut. Complete kitchens from £7,500. masterclasskitchens.co.uk This Alno Sign high-gloss, lacquer kitchen with stainless-steel handles features a bespoke Westin extractor and a granite worktop with a rough, riven edge. Reflective finishes bounce the light around, giving the illusion of space while handleless base units are both practical and avoid intruding into the working space. From £30,000. alno.co.uk Bespoke kitchen design company Papilio created this Scandi-style galley kitchen in this Victorian town house incorporating a number of clever tricks to create the feeling of space and light, with materials including an American straight grain oak veneer, polished brass, reeded glass and Carrara marble. Kitchens from £25,000. wearepapilio.co.uk
