PROJECT
CREATIVITY

Above: A new and imposing metallic monolith design from Minotticucine is the Maya kitchen. Designed by Alberto Minotti and crafted from 24k gold, the creation is the latest in the brand's 'age of metals' series, following on from the Terra kitchen in cast bronze, designed by Claudio Silvestrin. Minotticucine / minotticucinelondon

Below left: German brand LUQEL introduced its luxury water station into the UK market, offering thirty different mineralised water recipes. The high-tech machine offers personalisation of mineral content for each user, as well as offering the option of still, sparkling, cold, ambient, or hot water. Water is purified using reverse osmosis before minerals are added to suit an individual's taste. The dispenser utilises a smart bottle system enabling it to remember the preferred settings linked to each bottle. It has been designed for use in a range of applications, including workplaces, hospitality, and sports and leisure. LUQEL / luqel-water.com/en

Below right: Italian appliance brand Smeg partnered with The Coca-Cola Company to launch a new special edition fridge combining the two brand's signature looks. The limited edition Iconic refrigerator – modelled after the retro FAB28 refrigerator – incorporates Coke's signature red and white colour palette and SMEG's retro design, merging the two styles to pay homage to 1950's Americana. Smeg / smeguk.com
