"Materiality is an important aspect of our product philosophy. We wanted the kitchen to reflect the ethos of the architecture of this building and so we chose materials to reflect that. The tall cabinets and wall cabinets have doors in Brushed black anodised aluminium. The base cabinets and worktops are in fossil stone."

"To create a seamless look to the kitchen, the sink is made in the same material as the worktop. The BORA cooking systems are flush with the worktop, and incorporate industrial level recirculating filters to eliminate all cooking smells from the open plan living space. The minimal clean lines of our furniture, are complemented perfectly by the clients' collection of fabulous photographic art. Other appliances specified include a Gaggenau oven and steam-combi, Sub-Zero fridge/freezer and wine cooler, as well as Quooker boiling water tap in black."

"The kitchen is part of the open plan living space, so our concept was to create a monolithic, tonal look. Varying the material choices and textures, creates depth and interest in the kitchen at different times of the day. The tall cabinets in Black anodised aluminium conceal a Sub-Zero fridge/freezer and Gaggenau ovens behind a pocket door, while the glass panel of the Sub-Zero wine cooler breaks up the solidity of the kitchen."
