WINE ROOM OR CELLAR

What is it? A designated area to store and display your wine collection in optimum condition, often with a tasting table as part of the scheme.

Where can I have it? Traditionally built in a cool cellar, a wine room can be created anywhere with enough space and a good storage climate – but a conditioning system can help with this. A clever option is to install the room beneath the staircase.

Key considerations Think about how many bottles you wish to store and the space available – and don't forget to look at whether you need a system that helps keep the atmosphere right.

Pros This is a premium addition to a property for wine connoisseurs.

Cons You need both sufficient space and budget to create a successful design that perfectly suits your needs.

Cost Prices for a bespoke wine room start from around £20,000.

right Timber framing with inset glass panels surrounds this wine room, with feature lighting drawing attention to the bottle display. The design by McCarron & Co also includes a wine conditioning unit, drawers for corkscrews, and a slate counter. Wine rooms from McCarron & Co start from £20,000.
